FERC Business Meeting

Acting FERC Chairman Neil Chatterjee announced that FERC will hold its first regular business meeting, in six months on September 20th, at which project approval and other decisions are announced. However, due to the backlog of projects now awaiting FERC consideration, we believe that project approval announcements are likely even before this business meeting. Up first is the NEXUS national gas transmission pipeline (DTE & SEP) in Michigan and Ohio.

Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement (CETA) is a free-trade agreement between Canada and the European Union. The two agreed on September 21st to start the provisional application of the agreement, which will allow for all of the necessary implementing measures to be completed before the agreement begins. This deal will cut 98% of tariffs between Canada and the EU and will boost trade and investment.

Germany Federal Election

Federal elections will be held in Germany on September 24th. German Chancellor Angela Merkel leader of the Christian Democratic Union, who is running to hold the seat for the 4th time, has maintained a lead in the polls despite increased popularity for the leader of the Social Democrats, Martin Schultz. Merkel's decreasing popularity over the past years, mainly caused by her decision to open German doors to refugees, has not reduced a majority of voters that support her remaining the Chancellor.

24

MACRO

Germany And France Tax Meeting

After the elections in Germany, French and German leaders will be meeting to form an official plan to close tax loopholes for U.S. companies. The French Finance Minister Bruno Le Maire said they intend to propose new tax rules on U.S. tech giants like Apple and Google.

HEALTH

Open Enrollment

The 2018 open enrollment period for Obamacare begins November 1 and runs through December 15. Depending on the legislation Congressional Republicans can pass, the individual market place may look very different. This date is more symbolic than substantial as Congress members use it as a gateway to media to tout or condemn Obamacare.

MACRO

Asian Pacific Economic Cooperation

President Trump is expected to attend the APEC Summit in Vietnam. The Summit is the largest annual meeting for APEC which seeks to build relationships between Asia and the Pacific. After Trump pulled out of TPP and critiqued other Asian alliances, all eyes will be on new trade talks and resolutions coming out of the summit.

NOVEMBER

MACRO

Election Day

The biggest elections to watch this year are the gubernatorial races in Virginia and New Jersey. In both states, the incumbent is term-limited, creating an opportunity for both states to swing. If Georgia's special House election is any indicator, we will see an uptick in outside donors and advertising, especially from Democrats looking to counter Trump. The New York mayor's race is also expected to have record donation numbers.

DECEMBER

MACRO

Fiscal Cliff

President Trump struck a deal with Congressional leaders in September to extend the debt limit and government funding until December 8th pairing it with $15.3 Billion in funding for Hurricane disaster relief. Congress also extended the National Flood Insurance Program. While some rank and file House Republicans opposed it, the debt limit is raised – and extraordinary measures can allow for the Treasury Department to extend further until March/April 2018.

MACRO

Mini Cliff

December 31 is the next expiring deadline for several programs. Congress will need to address, extend, or reinstate these pieces of legislation before this time: Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA), Medicare extenders, and a number of tax extenders are set to expire. This also marks the sunset for the temporary increase in ground ambulance services, moratoria on collection of health insurance and the medical device tax, and the therapy cap exception process.
